LAN was formed by a committee of dedicated The University of Law former students with the aim of bringing together London-based, legal alumni. Its purpose is to create and reinforce professional and personal connections among its members through strengthening bonds of fellowship and collaboration, supporting The University of Law in maintaining its legacy of excellence in education.

If you live or work in London and would like to join LAN and be part of a group of local, like-minded legal professionals, please complete this short membership form. Membership is free.

The City of London Solicitors' Company is a working Livery Company and all members are required to practise or to have practised as a solicitor within the City of London and Canary Wharf. Membership is open to all City solicitors, whether or not in private practice. The Company has around 900 members, hosts regular dinners and has an active lecture series, sports section and special interest societies, providing plenty of opportunities to socialise with other City professionals. The Company also joins with other Livery Companies in pan-livery and City activities throughout the year.

The City of London Law Society (CLLS), is the professional representative body for solicitors and law firms in the City of London, including all the largest national and international practitioners. Their membership takes in more than 21,000 solicitors and 67 corporate member firms.
